It will be seen from the above resumi, that as regards the people generally, misapprehensions were few and that the efforts made by the authorities in the States to allay misgivingsNwere, as a rule, entirely successful, the only exception being, that which has already been referred to, namely, the inhabitants of the wild country in the south-east of Rajputana which is the home of the Bhils and Grassias. 185. In 1881 these same people showed so strong a repugnance to being counted that they were left unenumerated: not only so, but in the case of the Meywar, the Durbar in order to allay the excitement aroused among them, promised they should never suffer by the counting of men and houses. 186. This intense dislike of the Meywar Bhils, and their neighbours to being enumerated in any form which appears to be based on a suspicious fear of the ulterior objects of enumeration, has not lessened with the lapse of time, and when the question of enumeration was mooted in 1890, the head men among the Meywar Bhils at once gave it to be understood that their aversion to such a proceeding was undiminished and drew attention to the above-mentioned stipulation of 1881, which they interpreted as an undertaking on the part of the Durbar that enumeration of the Bhils was never to be made. As the...
